CCPI is a producer driven organization working to promote the tart cherry industry, educate consumers and producers, and encourage research. Our members choose the University of Saskatchewan bred cultivars and grow them across the prairies because of their superior health benefits, cold hardiness, and taste.

We believe in partnerships that will enable growers to thrive, and we encourage co-operative activities within our membership to create marketing and processing opportunities.

Tart cherries are a valuable part of a colorful and healthy diet, and CCPI engages with experts in the field to prove this.

Together, growers can successfully tackle industry challenges and share the benefits of our fruits for a healthy lifestyle.
